SHE'S NOT QUITE FIVE and the water is a looong way down, but Kira Binford is a study in self-confidence as she soars off the low diving board at the Carmel Valley Community pool. Below, instructor Sandy Swiess waits to catch her young pupil. Kira, and over 100 other children, have been taking lessons at the pool, and will be showing off what they have learned at a Jamboree Friday morning. For more pictures of activity at the pool, see pages 12 and 13.

The life-saving Medic-Alert program

. . . dynamic board member visits Valley

ARE YOU ALLERGIC to penicillin or tetanus vaccine?

Are you diabetic or taking special medication for a heart ailment?

If you were fatally injured, would one of your final wishes be that your eyes or kidneys or other useful organs go to a waiting recipient?

If the answer to any of these or dozens of other medically-related questions is "yes," you're a prime candidate for the unique service known as Medic-Alert.

Founded by a doctor in Turlock, Calif., 18 years ago, Medic-Alert has expanded to include more than 500,000 members in every state and in several foreign countries.

"And we're constantly finding new ways in which it can be helpful," the Rev. George Twigg-Porter, an energetic Jesuit priest from San Francisco, explained here yesterday.

Father Twigg-Porter, who is visiting Carmel Valley this week to assist with parish duties at Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Catholic Church, is on the board of Medic-Alert and an enthusiastic booster of its unique service.

The program is simple to understand. Any person in the United States, or abroad, for that matter, can write Medic-Alert, Turlock, Calif., 95380, to request an application form on which to list allergies, special medical programs or drugs being taken.

When the form is returned with a $7 fee, the information about the individual is immediately fed into a computer, where it can be retrieved anytime in the future in a matter of seconds.

THE MEDIC-ALERT participant then receives a special stainless steel or silver bracelet (gold is available for more money) which says "Medic-Alert" and lists the 24-hour number for Medic-Alert in Turlock, the patient's individual Medic-Alert number, and a brief phrase indicating what the medical problem is. This could be something as general as "heart condition" or as specific as "penicillin allergy."

In case of accident or sudden illness, the Medic-Alert bracelet automatically alerts a first aid crew or doctor to the fact that vital medical information about the patient is only seconds away at the end of a phone call.

"There are so many times when this service is invaluable," the Rev. Twigg-Porter said.

"If someone wants to donate his kidneys or eyes, for example, and includes the information in his will, it's usually too late by the time the will is read. The individual might tell a husband or wife of his desires, but they might not be around at the time of an accident, or they might not be in a position to relay the information.

"But if the person is wearing a Medic-Alert bracelet, the doctor can learn of his wishes immediately, and not do something that would damage the potential donor organs."

Various industries have found the Medic-Alert bracelet to be a life-saver. Deep sea and scuba divers, for example, who can be stricken with a potentially fatal case of the "bends" several hours after a dive, are now wearing the bracelets.

So are people who have pacemakers implanted in their hearts.

So are people who wear contact lenses.

"In case of an accident, it can be very important for a doctor to know if he should look for a contact lens in someone's eye, which might otherwise damage the cornea," he continued.

Medic-Alert will accept calls from any place in the world, and the average call is completed within 13 seconds. In addition to learning pertinent medical data, the caller can find out the patient's home address and the name of his personal physician.

INFORMATION ON FILE may be updated every two years, or more often if necessary. Payment of an additional $1 to add new information is optional.

Diabetics comprise the largest single group using the Medic-Alert service, and penicillin is the most frequently listed allergy.

In recent years, there has been a trend toward younger people signing up with Medic-Alert, many because they want to be known as potential donors in case of a fatal accident.

"And many businesses are presenting employees with Medic-Alert membership, and more and more people are giving Medic-Alert as a gift to others in their families," he added.

The Rev. Twigg-Porter has had many occasions to see the value of Medic-Alert in an emergency situation. As a chaplain for the emergency hospital service operated by the city of San Francisco, he frequently makes ambulance runs with first aid crews.

"In case of an accident, a card in your wallet is of very secondary help" he said. "Doctors will tell you that they will check around the neck, wrist or ankle for any information. In some states, it would be illegal for them to open up your purse or wallet. And in the case of a multiple accident, things get pretty confused, and wallets go in one direction and the injured person in another."

During his week in Carmel Valley, the Rev. Twigg-Porter met with the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department, which he characterized as "an excellent group . . . truly professional in their work."

He expects to be back in Carmel in October to give a study program at the Carmel Mission on "Faith and Vatican II."

Obituaries

Herbert Dockery

Funeral services were held Tuesday at Farlinger Funeral Home for Herbert Elmar Dockery, long-time Carmel Valley resident, who died unexpectedly Saturday at a local hospital. He was 72.

A native of Cedar Vale, Kan., Mr. Dockery had been a resident of Carmel Valley since 1937. He was a retired carpenter and a member of Carpenter's Union Local 1323.

He is survived by his wife, Christina, of De El Rio, Robles del Rio; two daughters, Mrs. Opal Dutton of Carmel Valley and Mrs. Barbara Ann Smith of Harbor, Ore.; a half-brother, Reece Barton of San Jose; a sister, Mrs. Marie Lea of Vinita, Okla.; a half-sister, Mrs. Lorraine Stewart of San Miguel; and seven grandchildren.

THE ORGANIC GARDENER

. . . in Carmel Valley

By LEE HALL

THE FIRST YEAR of insect control for the organic gardener is similar to the first year of composting—results are often disappointing.

If the gardener tries to do away with all insecticides the first year, he may lose plants. Instead, he should keep in his inventory some insecticides made from plants which decompose rapidly, such as the pyrethoins, rotenone and-or nicotine. These should be used only when needed—never to prevent insects—and only where needed. One should always remember the eventual goals: to allow natural enemies to increase, to protect beneficial insects and to decrease the use of any insecticides as much as possible.

1. Never try to prevent insects, other than to use dormant oil spray to kill over-wintering insects on deciduous plants.

2. Limit heavy spray to very infested spots only. Don't try to kill all the insects because it can't be done, surviving insects will become spray-resistant, some insects must be left to feed the beneficial insects or birds that you want to take over the job eventually, and too much spray will kill too many beneficial insects.

3. Practice clean cultivation. Bury or compost all garden or flower refuse. Many insects over-winter on plant refuse. Clean up and dispose of all fruit or nut "mummies" or windfall fruit. Be especially careful to keep leaves, weeds and other refuse away from the trunks of fruit and nut trees, especially over the winter.

4. Remove all old or exhausted plants. Often insects won't attack vigorously growing and producing plants, but will attack old ones.

5. Remember that the overkill of one species can result in the rebound of a different, but equally bad species. One species that frequently rebounds is the red spider mite, which will appear following the use of broad spectrum insecticides.

ORGANIC GARDENING is likely to bring you into a closer relationship, hopefully harmonious, with your neighbors. This is going to occur if the neighbors on either side of you advocate "preventative defense" and have their hose insect-sprayer going full blast every week or two while you are trying to reduce the use of insecticides around your house. This defensive action by your neighbors will kill the lady bugs, bees, lace wings and praying mantises, among others, which you are trying to encourage.

In this case, diplomacy and gentle persuasion are your best weapons. Ask your immediate neighbors to try a new approach with you for a year or two. Even though the first year might not be a resounding success, results of the second year will sell them.

On the other hand, if you have an acre or more of ground on your property, you can have a fairly independent life system.

One final observation for this week: Recently we were anxiously watching some aphids on some old corn that should have been removed. After a few days, the lady bugs began to congregate and dine on the aphids.

We observed that the lady bugs would eat two or three aphids, appear restless, and then scurry off after another lady bug. (We are now convinced that the restless ones were gentlemen bugs.)

AT ANY RATE, they would then make wild love for a while, separate and go eat some more aphids.

Now if only someone could find a way to market organically grown aphids...

Good Guys	eat	Bay Guys
Ladybugs		Aphids, scale, mealy bugs, red spider
Praying mantis		Plant lice, flies, grasshoppers, chinch bugs, moths, Mexican bean beetle, tomato horn worm
Lacewings		Aphids

In a later column we will discuss birds, what insects each type eats, and how to attract the desirable varieties.

Barbara C. Tripp

Mrs. Barbara C. Tripp of 92 Laurel Drive died in a local convalescent hospital Tuesday after a period of failing health.

A well-known artist, decorator and writer, she had lived on the Monterey Peninsula intermittently since 1955. An exhibit of her work, the Psychic Paintings of Edwin Corey, is on display in the Green Room of the Tantamount Theatre.

She is survived by a daughter, Mela Ferrer of San Francisco, and a son, Chris Ferrer of New York.

Private cremation has been held at the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea in Pacific Grove. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

A MAJOR RENOVATION and expansion program is proceeding on schedule at Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Catholic Church in Carmel Valley. Masses are being conducted at the Community Chapel while workmen enlarge the sanctuary area. Substituting for the Rev. Douglas Keating, who is on vacation, this past week was the Rev. George Twigg-Porter, a Jesuit priest who lives at the University of San Francisco.

Flood plain zoning in Valley urged by Carmel Citizens Committee

In a letter to the County Board of Supervisors, the Carmel Citizens Committee Monday urged flood plain zoning for the Carmel Valley.

Acknowledging that such action by the board of supervisors might be unpopular with landowners in the Valley, the committee urged, "...that first consideration be given to health, safety and welfare..."

The full text of the letter follows:

"On numerous occasions since the Carmel Citizens Committee was organized in 1958 its Board of Directors has recommended against high density housing developments in the Carmel Valley.

"Its objections have been based upon all of the environmental detriments such as air and water pollution, traffic congestion, despoilment of the scenic beauty, and the serious danger of flooding.

"Now, with the devastating and awful results of flooding vividly brought to our attention by television and news-media coverage of the floods in the East and the Sacramento Delta, the Board of Directors of the Carmel Citizens Committee must again urge the Board of Supervisors to be cognizant of the dangerous flood potential of the Carmel River.

"While we are not qualified to say which acreage is safe from floods, and which is sure to be inundated, or whether the 14,000, 25,000, or 40,000 CFS is the correct criteria, we are obligated to remind the Board of Supervisors that a flood of any important magnitude will cause great damage and suffering, not only to those who by misadventure happen to live in the flooded zone, but to all residents of the nearby area.

"We are well aware of the fact that flood plain zoning of the Carmel Valley would be unpopular with the owners of the affected property. Nevertheless, we urge that first consideration be given to health, safety, and welfare, and that interim flood plain zoning be enacted in the Carmel Valley until it has been definitely determined by recognized engineering authorities that all danger of inundation has been removed."

Singing ladies wanted for barbershop harmony

Local women interested in learning to sing barbershop harmony are invited to attend a meeting Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the library of Carmel High School. The meeting will be conducted by Mrs. Nita Fallis of Pebble Beach, in the interest of organizing a chapter of Sweet Adelines, Inc., an international four-part harmony organization for women.

John Ribonson of Carmel will direct the new group. He is a member of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, has sung in many quartets, and directed the Sweet Adeline chapter in Salinas when it was organized.

"Sweet Adelines is a civic service-hobby organization for women," Mrs. Fallis said. "Each chapter is a chorus of 20 or more members who learn to sing barbershop harmony. Eventually the group will be available to sing at various civic functions and entertain charitable groups. It's a lot of fun and, of course, very rewarding.

"The Tuesday meeting will be a get-acquainted affair. We'll learn a little bit about Sweet Adelines, but mainly the meeting will be devoted to introducing barbershop singing to the group. Musical knowledge is not necessary to sing with this prospective chapter. If you like to sing and want to contribute a few hours each month to civic service, you'll enjoy Sweet Adelines."

Further information may be obtained by calling 372-3464 or 624-9023.

A REAL HONEST to goodness red-white-and-blue Fourth of July celebration was the family gathering held at the Garzas Canyon home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dick. The decorations were beautifully patriotic; the food delicious and in bountiful quantities; the music—toe-tapping by the Abalone Stompers; and the reunion—a gathering of the clan which included: Richard's father, Mr. Mathew Dick of Chicago, their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. David Dick and son, Mathew, of Santa Clara; their daughter, Nancy, from Lafayette, and husband Peter Herb, who was the executive secretary of the Northern California Tennis Association, played an important role in the Eastwood Celebrity Tennis Tournament that weekend; Mrs. Eward Euwer, Piedmont, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin R. Dick, Pebble Beach; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Grow (Olene's sister and husband who, with their son, Jody, came from Los Angeles), Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Lauwry, Los Angeles; and from the Valley, Mrs. Paul Anthony, Mrs. Philip Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin T. Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. George Clifford.

A BASKET FILLED with gifts and good wishes was presented to Margaret Moore, guest of honor at a recent bon voyage bridge luncheon prior to her departure for England. Mrs. Robert Angell was hostess at her Valle Vista Drive home. Bridge prizes were won by Betty Graham and Dorothy Chappell. Others wishing Margaret a pleasant journey were Mmes. Viola Bellemans, Gene Bartlett, Howard Vail and Kay Draper. Friends are remaining in Margaret's Valley home during her absence.

THE CARMEL-CARMEL VALLEY Barracuda Diving Team traveled to Santa Cruz on Saturday to compete at the Harvey West Pool. Coaches Bob Horn and Pat McGibney noted that the team showed a marked improvement in this, their second meet of the season, with Karen Limov (15-17) earning the top score in the meet with 175.5 points. Shane Hattan (11-12) and Tim Auger (8-U) also had outstanding performances as they took first in their age groups.

Other strong showings were by Alan Crockett (13-14) first place; Lynn McDonald (8-U) and Curtis Jones (9-10), second place; Linda Lewis (11-12) and Shawn Swiess (11-12) third place.

ATTENTION CARMEL VALLEY Chamber of Commerce...a large live vulture spotted frequently on the curve west of the River Ranch has given more than one speeding motorist pause for thought...A Chamber on its toes just might turn a tidy profit by furnishing the carnivorous feathered critters for a statewide safe driving campaign! It's "a family affair" according to Soap Box Derby Chairman, Dick McKenzie, who has signed from Monterey the three Howard brothers, Walter, Joe and Jim, to race against each other on July 30th in the cars which they have built as well as two SISTERS, Melinda and Carol Meredith of Fort Ord who have built racers which will be in competition with one built by their brother, Rick.

"An old oak leaf cluster" to the Plaza Linda who picked up the sponsorship of Stanley Reiter from Fort Ord who will be racing against his brother, Rick...A "no vacancy" sign hurriedly assembled and hung by Dave Redman and the gang at the Bank of America during last week's heat wave when the Valley residents learned that the temperature had dropped to a heavenly "arctic" inside the Village depository...As brash and cocky as George M. Cohan was the septic tank service truck skittering around the Valley on the Fourth of July proudly crowned with a small American flag..."Then there is professionally experienced Donna J.R. Conne, a newcomer to the Studio who is delightfully abrasive as Mona Kent, the domineering sexy star, who collapses, of course, when the big show opens," wrote "GMD" in his critique of "Dames at Sea," the musical currently playing at the Studio. Little did GMD—or the rest of the audience—realize just how close to collapse the Laurel Drive resident actually was at that particular performance when during one of her numerous lightning costume changes, the zipper stuck bringing about some fancy improvising by both Donna and Bill Kramp when he learned that not only could neither of them move during the scene but that it would take BOTH of their undivided attention to hold the garment on "Mona!"

The cast is filled with Valley personalities including Bill Asp of Miramonte, Jeannie M. Hughes of Lower Circle and Greg Granoff of Rancho Road . . .

GUESTS FROM JAPAN have been discovering numerous sun-drenched Carmel Valley homes in recent weeks with the gates swung wide in welcome by hospitable Valley hosts and hostesses. In addition to the Tokyo Synchronized Swimming Club who were entertained royally by Valley families at luncheon on Tuesday at her Marquard Road home, Mrs. Adele Hughes honored Aiko and John Nara of Osaka, Japan. Adele met the Naras in Japan through mutual friends, the Gilmours who were former Valley residents. Mr. Nara is the director of the newly built YMCA in Japan and for many years has been the president of the YMCA clubs of that country. Also enjoying the luncheon and brief Valley visit were Mr. and Mrs.G.T. Dorrance of Santa Barbara who were driving the Naras to San Francisco, from where they will enplane for Athens, Ohio and the international convention of YMCA to be held at Ohio University there. Luncheon guests on Wednesday entertained by Adele included Mrs. Ruth Jepsen of Carmel and her houseguests, Mrs. Junko Semitsu of Fresno and her mother, Mrs. Maita of Tokyo, Japan. Mrs. Jepsen's son met Junko's family when he was stationed in Tokyo during the war. He repaid their kindness and friendship by sponsoring Junko's education in the United States where she met and married a Japanese-American.

A PAINTING in tempera by a Valley artist will evoke memories of the recent Eastwood Tennis Tournament for western film star John Wayne who made his appealing discovery at the Richard Tette Gallery on Dolores and 6th in Carmel. "Barn East of Tassajara Road," confessed Dick Tette, a resident of Laurel Drive, "is a northern California landscape where a Tassajara Road winds near Pleasanton—not the famed Upper Carmel Valley landmark."

EMERGENCIES

The only fire reported this week was an automobile on fire at the home of Julia Wiese, Laurel Drive. Responding to a call at 7:30 a.m. on the 14th, the fire department sent 1 truck and 10 men to extinguish the blaze, caused by a disconnected gas line. Damage was estimated at $800.

Three calls for emergency assistance were received by the first aid crew this week.

On Friday, the 14th, at 10:30 p.m., Cassandra Daubinnot of Nassau, Bahamas, who was visiting at Gardiner's Tennis Ranch, experienced difficulty breathing. She was given inhalation and released.

On Saturday at 4:58 p.m. a call was answered at the Dockery residence on De El Rio in Robles. Herbert Dockery was taken to a local hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival. (See obituary in this issue.)

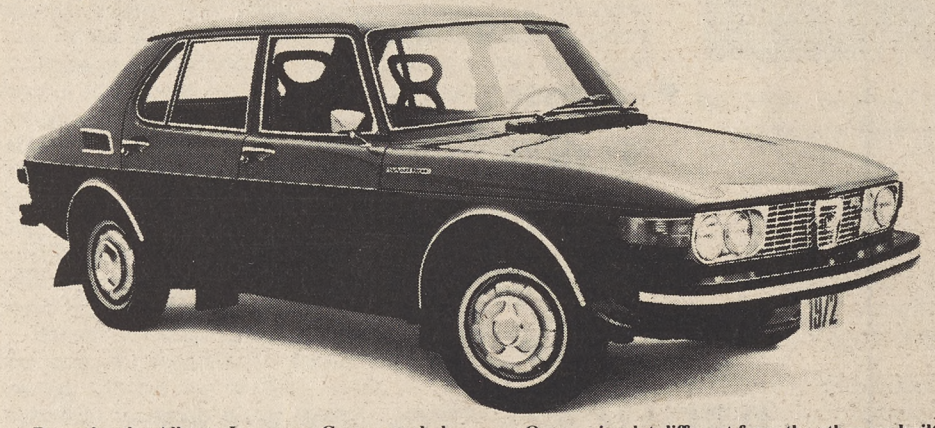

A call from the Cahoon Ranch at 5:35 p.m. on Wednesday the 19th resulted in Jimmie Leon Wilkins of Granada St., Seaside being taken to Community Hospital, having suffered a broken foot in a motorcycle accident.

This has been a week of great variety in temperature, but alas, no reported rainfall, according to Peter Barnard of the C.V. Fire Department.

There are two cars built in Sweden.
This is the one that reduces your collision insurance rates 15% at Allstate.

Recently, the Allstate Insurance Company challenged the automobile industry to build a car that could withstand a 5 mile an hour front end and a 2½ mile an hour rear end collision with an immovable barrier without any damage to the car.

Build such a car, said Allstate, and we'll reduce collision insurance rates on it 15%...a reduction that can save the car owner $20, $40, maybe even $80 or more a year on insurance premiums.

As of today, only one car qualifies for that reduction: The new SAAB 99E. Our car.

Our car passes the 1973 Federal Safety Standards for low speed collisions a year before it's required.

Our car is a lot different from the other car built in Sweden in other ways, too.

Our car has Front-Wheel Drive, a standard 4-cylinder, fuel-injected, overhead cam engine and 4-speed transmission (3-speed automatic is optional), 4-wheel disc brakes and roll-cage construction. Radial tires are standard too.

One thing that isn't a lot different is price. Our car costs about the same as theirs.

So before you buy their car, drive ours. The SAAB 99E. We think you're going to buy our car instead of theirs.

Lower Valley Fire Service Area 88¢ tax provides for fire station and pumper truck

The Board of Supervisors accepted the recommendations of the County Service Area 43 (Fire Protection) Advisory Committee at their budget meeting Monday, and approved a tax rate of 88 cents per $100 of assessed valuation (retroactive to July 1, 1972) to provide fire protection for the unincorporated areas surrounding Carmel. (See map for boundaries of CSA 43).

According to the plan which the Advisory Committee recommended to the Board of Supervisors, the tax monies will be used to:

(1) Build "A Fire Station capable of providing space for future needs" on the three-quarter acre parcel at Carmel Rancho Shopping Center which was donated for that purpose;

(2) Purchase "a new 1250 gallon-per-minute Pumper Truck, fully equipped for Structural fire fighting," this item to "be put out for bids;"

(3) Allow the County to "contract with the State Forestry for the manning of this new truck with a four-man crew (around the clock) and ancillary services, i.e., dispatcher, clerk, etc., on a pro-rata basis as is now done with our present equipment."

The proposed fire station at Carmel Rancho would be "for exclusive use" of CSA 43, while the fire truck and crew stationed at Carmel Hill will continue to be shared with CSA 42 (Del Monte Forest-Pebble Beach area.)

The approval of the recommended plan by the Board of Supervisors marks the culmination of much concerned long-term planning by the Advisory Committee of CSA 43, Mssrs. O.N. Ford, Donald G. Hubbard, Edwin L. Rich, H.P. Seymour and St. E.P. Tyner.

An information sheet distributed by the Advisory Committee to residents of the affected area states:

"CSA 43 had its inception early in 1965 when a group of public-spirited citizens, at that time affiliated with an organization known as Carmel Unincorporated, agreed that positive steps must be taken to provide an acceptable minimum of fire protection for the unincorporated areas. Initially small citizens groups and property owners associations took action to obtain adequate fire hydrants for their respective neighborhoods through the formation of separate service areas. (Hydrants installed for a service area cost nothing for installation, whereas, when ordered by individuals or developers, the cost per hydrant is between $400 and $500.) Among those who helped launch the project which later was to become CSA 43 were John S. Coates, Dan Daly, H.P. Seymour, Harold C. Arnot, Major General James H. Phillips, Colonel St. E.P. Tyner, and many others.

"The service area was actually formed by the Board of Supervisors in 1965 with the understanding that the CSA was solely for the purpose of providing fire protection. This new service area took over the responsibility for adequate fire hydrants and at the present time, it is believed that no house in the Area is more than 400 feet from a regulation fire hydrant.

"In order to minimize costs, Service Area 43 joined with Service Area 42 (formed at the same time) which comprises the Del Monte Forest-Pebble Beach area. By providing for a small surplus in taxation, within one year these service areas were able to purchase a modern structural fire fighting pumper truck which is stationed at the Carmel Hill Forestry Station. Again, to hold down costs, a contract was entered into with the State to provide specially trained structural fire-fighting crews around the clock which are specifically assigned to our truck and can not be diverted to any other use. There were many other advantages to this course of action. Through such a contract, we pay only a pro-rata share for other required services, such as around-the-clock dispatcher, truck and radio maintenance and required administrative service. If we had established a completely separate operation, we would have had to pay the full salaries of such extra personnel instead of a share of these costs."

Although it seemed that CSA 43 had their fire protection needs well in hand, two factors arose which required them to make plans to provide more adequate fire protection on their own, rather than relying on the Division of Forestry.

First, as the Advisory Committee explains, "The County Board of Supervisors warned the public that the existing policy (wherein the County contracted with the Division of Forestry to provide fire protection for unincorporated areas during the five and a half months fire season each year) would soon have to be terminated. It must be conceded that this contract did discriminate against those tax payers within incorporated areas who not only provided their own fire protection, but through taxes paid into the County helped pay for rural fire protection.

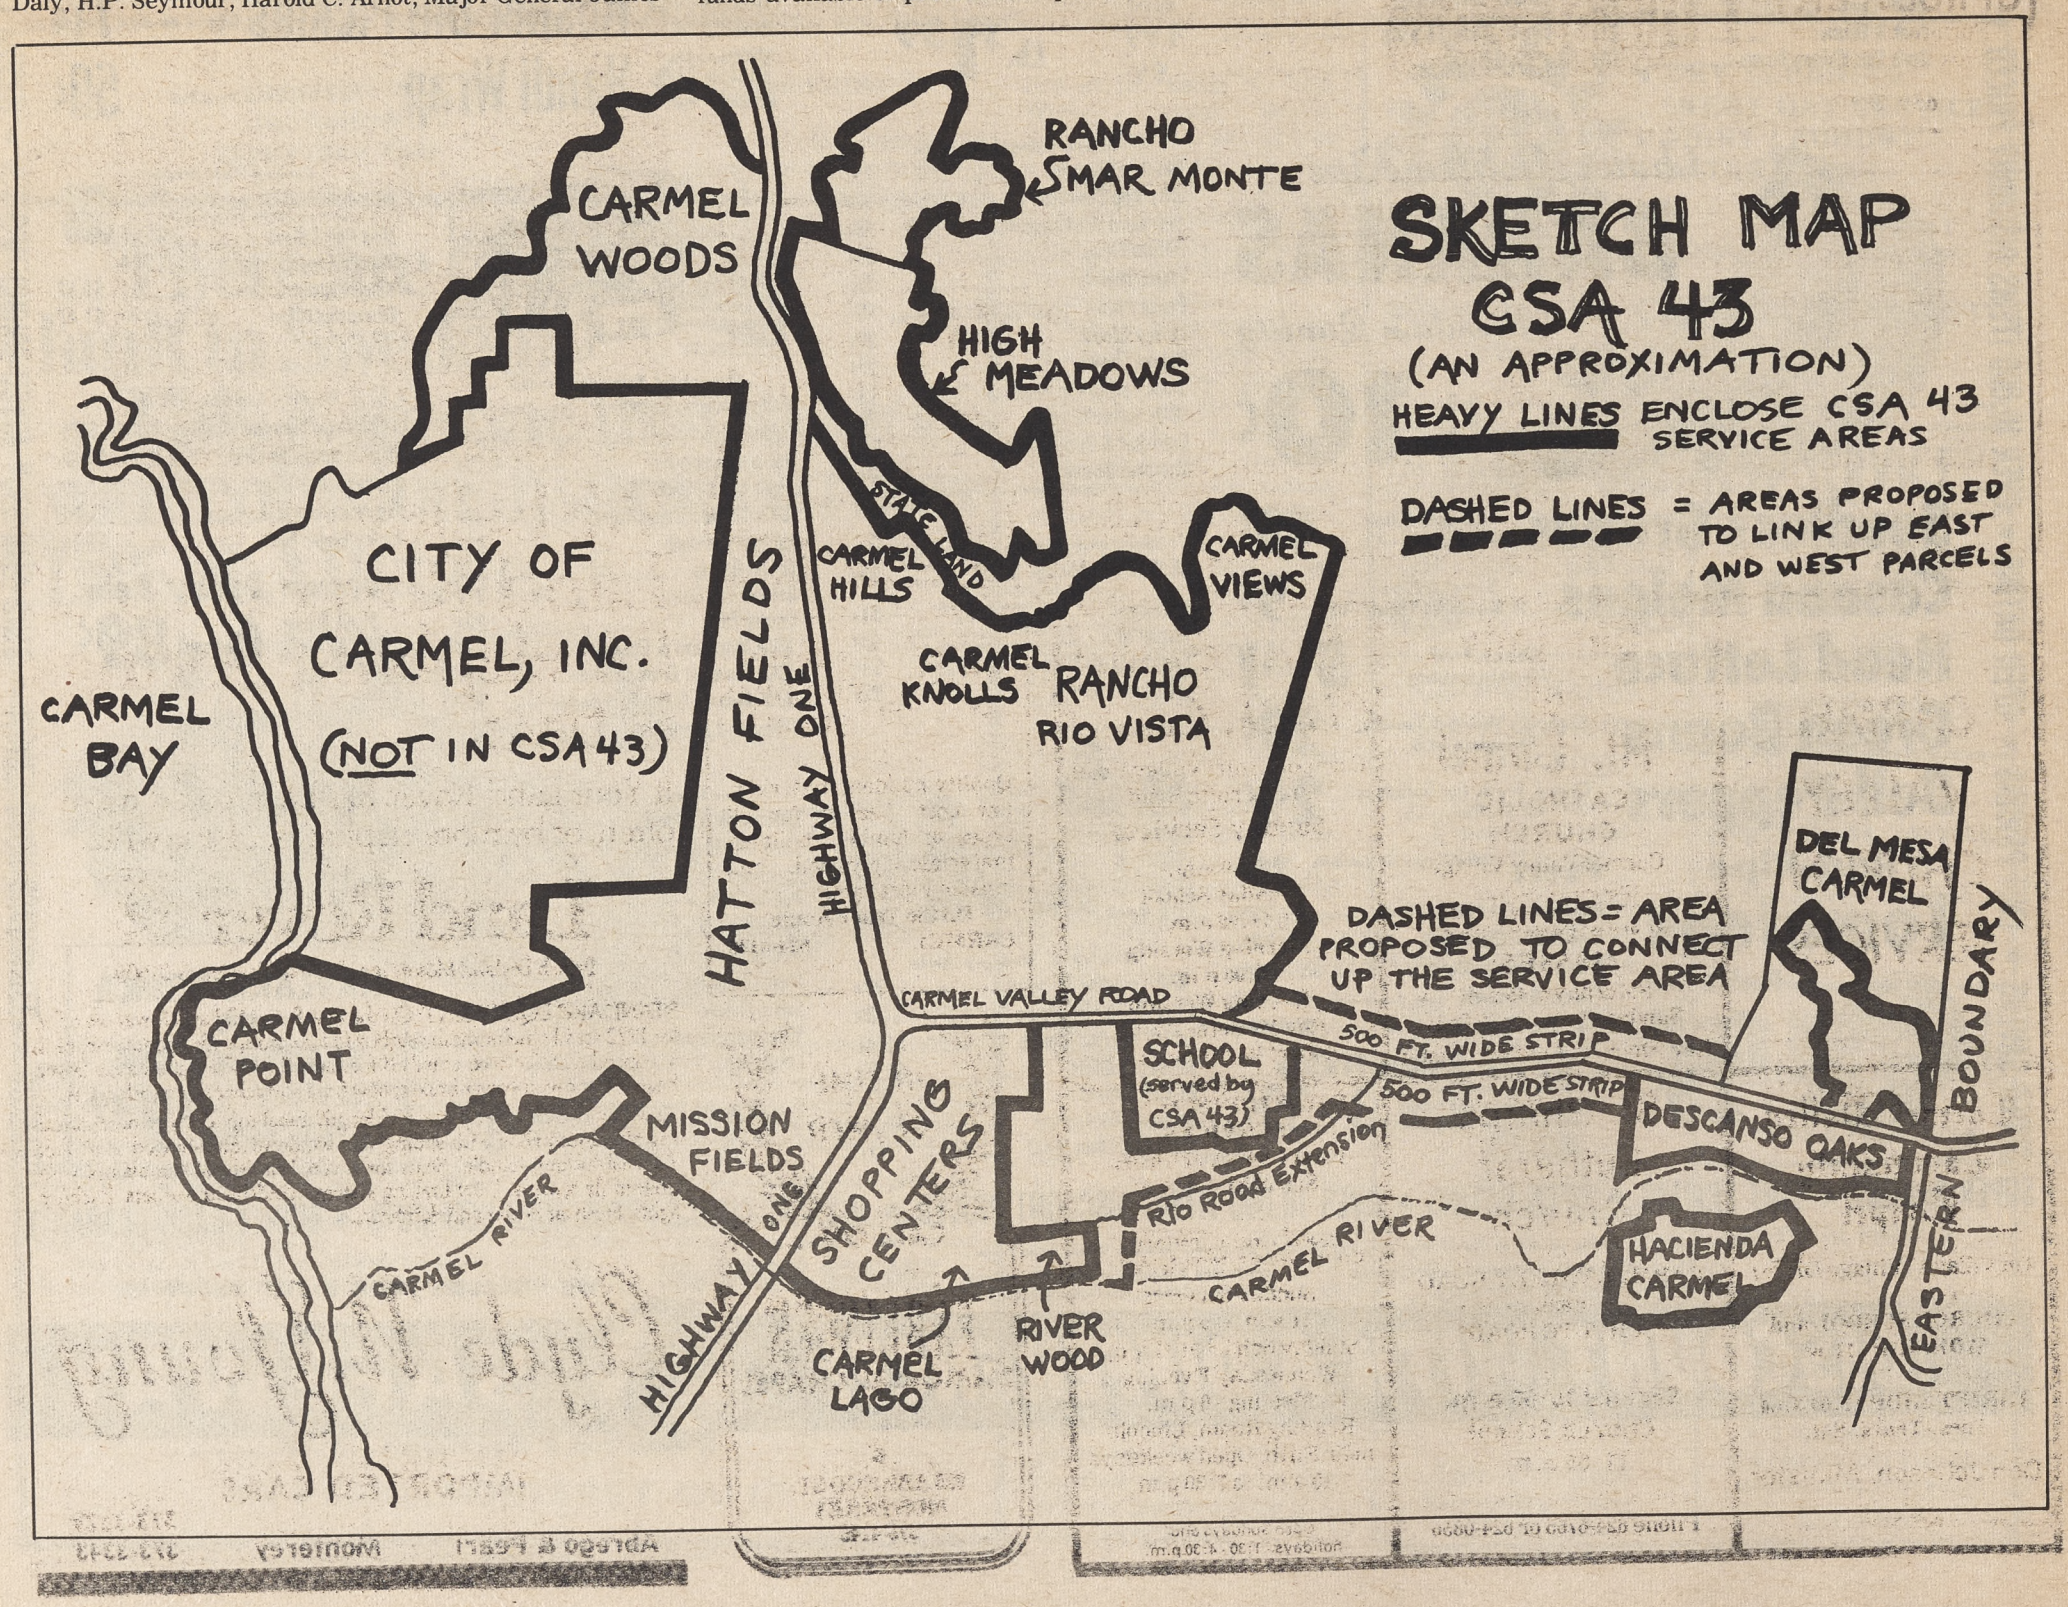

"As predicted, a state law was passed which prohibited counties from paying for such rural fire protection services on and after 1 July 1971. In order to give rural residents a final opportunity to organize their own services, the Supervisors did find funds to extend the contract until 1 July, 1972. This contract has now expired and there are no county funds available to provide such protection."

Each County Service Area must now make its own fire protection plans and rely on its own resources, and, according to the Advisory Committee of CSA 43, "many unincorporated areas have been caught unprepared and are desperately striving to solve their fire protection problems with no equipment and no funds available to them. In CSA 43 we are pardonably proud that we have planned ahead for this contingency and believe we are prepared to meet the challenge. (One new Service Area, Mid-Valley CSA No. 59, is faced with the necessity of imposing a tax rate of one dollar per hundred or more in order to provide a very minimal service while accruing funds for purchase of equipment.)"

The second factor which compelled CSA 43 to recommend establishing a fire station in the unincorporated areas around Carmel took place in 1971, when, as the Advisory Committee reports, the "Pacific Fire Rating Bureau (now known as Insurance Services Offices, Pacific Region Office), which services all insurance companies with rating information, changed the classification of residences within CSA 42 and CSA 43 from a SEVEN to a TEN. On a $40,000 home this meant an increase of $112.00 per year (from $246.00 to $358.00). Home owners whose policies were renewed during this period are painfully aware of this increase. The two Advisory Committees of CSA 42 and 43 immediately went to work and prevailed upon the Rating Bureau to review and reappraise our situation. It required several weeks for this to be done. Finally, upon our agreement to increase our fire crew by two additional men (around the clock), they restored our Class Seven Rating. But they also made certain recommendations which should be followed to provide satisfactory services. These recommendations included an additional fire company (truck and crew) to be stationed in the Carmel Valley east of Route One, an additional fire company to be established within the CSA 42 area, and a third company to be near the top of Carmel Hill which is actually the location of our present truck."

It was at that point that the Advisory Committee "was faced with the problem of recommending to the Board of Supervisors those minimum measures that must be taken to provide an acceptable level of protection at the lowest cost to the Taxpayers." And since "the recommendations of the Rating Bureau were almost identical with the long-range plans which have been under discussion since the CSA was originally formed," the CSA 43 Advisory Committee began to formulate the plan which has now been approved by the Board of Supervisors.

In actuality, the new tax rate of 88 cents per $100 of assessed valuation (the former rate was 35 cents per $100 in fiscal 1971) will still represent a savings to homeowners in CSA 43, because of their lower fire insurance premiums. As the Advisory Committee explains it, while the "Committee considers the protection of life and property to be the all important requirement, we wish to point out comparative insurance rates which further support our recommendations:

"On a home having a market value of $40,000 (as an example), the assessed valuation is 25 percent, or $10,000. At 88 cents per hundred, fire protection would cost $88 per year.

Insurance on this house at a Class 10 rate	$358.00
Insurance on this house at a Class 7 rate	246.00
Savings per year on insurance	$112.00
Tax cost per year	88.00
Net savings per year	$ 24.00

"It is, thus, readily apparent that the above owner would not only have more than double his present fire protection but would save $24.00 per year over what it would cost for insurance if, due to our failure to act on the Fire Raters' recommendations, the rate would again be established under Class 10 costs."

While the Advisory Committee felt that "without prompt and adequate measures on our part," the fire insurance rate in CSA 43 "can be expected to rise again," they feel "hopeful that, with the new station and equipment, we may even qualify for a Class VI rate which would mean, on the example above, another $25. savings."

The Advisory Committee also considered the possibility of establishing a volunteer fire department, but their "investigations show this to be impracticable. It may be possible to augment our program with volunteers at a later date. At this time, in order to meet all requirements we must have crews of professional fire fighters."

The Advisory Committee believes "that the new Fire Company can be in operation about January first of next year. It will require several months to build the fire station and receive delivery on the new truck. When this new program becomes operational, the residents of this Area will have:

(1) A first class 1250 gal-per-min fire truck, fully equipped, at the Rio Road station. A four-man crew (around the clock), Dispatcher and other ancillary services on a pro-rata basis from Carmel Hill Station;

(2) Our present 1000 gal-per-min pumper now stationed on Carmel Hill and shared with CSA 42. A four-man crew with this truck 24 hours per day.

(3) A total response of two modern pumper trucks and eight fully-trained and experienced firemen."

Odello redevelopment plan on agenda for next week

THE REDEVELOPMENT PLAN for the eastern portion of the Odello ranch may or may not be considered by the Monterey County Planning Commission next Wednesday.

A hearing to discuss a proposed 627-unit development east of Highway 1 is listed on the agenda for 3 p.m.

However, following a meeting between County Counsel William Stoffers and members of the planning staff yesterday morning, the planning department will recommend that the hearing be continued to August 9 to give the developers time to submit more detailed information about the plan.

So far, what has been submitted is the now-familiar mpa showing a 300-unit hotel and 327 residential units clustered on 137 acres on the east, with the western 155 acres shown undeveloped. Accompanying the map is a description of the project, essentially the same as has been under submission for many months.

Because this project is a redevelopment plan, not a normal subdivision, the procedure is somewhat different from the normal progression of public hearings.

After the planning commission reviews the redevelopment plan, its action will be to recommend a preliminary development plan to the board of supervisors, sitting as the county's redevelopment agency. The supervisors will then come up with a final redevelopment plan, which will be submitted back to the planning commission for approval and then be returned to the supervisors for final approval.

At the point at which the final redevelopment plan is approved by the supervisors, considerations of rezoning become moot.

At their meeting last Tuesday, the supervisors continued consideration of rezoning for the Odello ranch to Aug. 29.

Meanwhile, representatives from a group of concerned organizations have formed an ad hoc committee to explore ways of acquiring all of the Odello artichoke fields for public ownership and control.

The specific objective of the group is to effect a joint powers agreement under which local public agencies could acquire the entire 292 acres of Odello land "for continued agricultural use or such other open space use as would best serve the community," according to a statement issued Monday.

Representatives of the following organizations are participating: Carmel Valley Property Owners Association, Carmel Meadows Property Owners Association, Rancho Rio Vista Property Owners Association, Coast Property Owners Association, Monterey Area Conservation Coordinating Council, Carmel Area Coalition, Nature Conservancy, Carmel Citizens Committee, OLAF, the Carmel Sanitary District and the City of Carmel. Others are expected to join.

"Preliminary discussions have been held with those local agencies in a position to implement any acceptable plan which might be developed. Response has been encouraging and additional meetings are planned," the ad hoc committee statement said. Representatives from many of the organizations participated in a private meeting last Thursday. Further meetings were to be held this week.

Community Hospital gets heart award

Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula has been cited for meritorious service by the Central Mission Trails Heart Association.

Awarded were a bronze medallion and plaque for helping the Central Mission Trails Heart Association to train 1,800 volunteers throughout Monterey County in how to save a life in the vital four-to-six minutes following cardiac arrest or medical emergencies.

"Students" included doctors, nurses, dentists, policemen, firemen, ambulance personnel and golf professionals.

Specially noted was the hospital's new in-house educational program in the latest techniques in cardiac pulmonary resuscitation which has been underway since January. Fifty doctors, nurses and paramedics are being trained at the hospital each month in cardiac pulmonary resuscitation by volunteer doctors and registered nurses.

Monterey County District Attorney William Curtis presented the hospital with the medallion "for meritorious service" and the plaque "in recognition of dedicated service in advancing the fight against diseases of the heart and circulation" at the recent annual meeting of the Central Mission Trails Heart Association held at the DeLaveaga Country Club in Santa Cruz. Accepting for the hospital was Alice Smith, R.N., assistant director of nursing.

ALADDIN IN CARMEL

Re-printed below is a magazine clipping, written by a roving reporter, who was greatly taken by the wondrous things displayed in Mr. Winter's shop, The Village Jeweler, on Dolores Street between 5th & 6th - Su Vecino Court.

"Aladdin, lost in his cave and putting out his hand to the trees which bore the fruits of glorious color and fashioned of precious stones, was no more astounded than is the Carmel visitor who just happens into the 'ear-ring' shop.

"Recently a New York salesman unloaded his sample cases before the doorway of this small establishment. He came as missionary to unknown parts, for isn't Carmel, California, a tiny hinterland village? On stepping inside, he fell back, dismayed. There was no need for missionary work here—not in his department, anyhow.

" 'The Village Jeweler,' whose astute owner has collected all this loot and put it under one roof, literally has the largest and most surprising display of ear-rings in the United States. No foolin'. And it takes a mighty stout-hearted woman to pass up the feast.

"Did your grandmother own some beautifully wrought bracelets of soft gold, with classic designs running through the pattern? And, having had these appraised, have you taken them down to the bank for safe keeping? You can match them here in ear-rings, and at a painless price. Persons knowing the value of Grandma's keepsakes will be properly impressed at the ear-rings you have chosen to go with them, and you can save the price of an extra safety deposit box.

"Every color of the spectrum, softly muted, is here, in ascending or descending scale as to hues and shades and tints. If it's azure or lapis Lazuli or rose or emerald or amethyst or topaz or gold or silver you prefer, you mention it.

"There are whole trays of each color, quite by itself. And these range in style from what you would wear to your Grand-Aunt Emma's tea for the ladies' knitting group to something dazzling for a night on the town in company with six drunken sailors. You accept a lapful of jewels from the trusting soul who is the proprietor and have yourself a big time. All HE has to do is hope your check won't bounce.

"There is something barbaric in almost every female. She 'hates' jewelry, maybe, but when she says 'jewelry' she almost never means little things to stick in her ears. Count the number of women you see who are not wearing brooches, bracelets, rings, necklaces or tiaras but who are wearing ear-rings. That's because The Little Woman feels kind of undressed without them. The Village Jewelers is for the likes of her. And it's worth the trip—from ANY distance. A shoppers' paradise."—Adv.

Picnic area cleared at Carmel Valley Airport

THE WEATHER was perfect on a recent Sunday at the C.V. Airport when 42 members and their families of the Monterey Peninsula Airmen's Association cleared brush and graded land provided by Al Hood, operator of the airport, to make a picnic area.

After the sites were finished, four picnic tables, assembled by the MPAA members, were carried set up, with three barbecue grills located nearby.

For recreation, the members made a horsershoe pit, and then relaxed by pitching horseshoes and eating a late lunch barbecue.

The mini-park improvements were funded by the Airmen's Association, according to the president, Allen Dyer of Valley Greens.

Roy Hubbard was project chairman, refreshments were arranged by "Red" Geesaman and Pat Beyhan, and food coordinator was Orzie Peck. Lee Jenner handled reservations and Dick Seales provided the drawing prizes.

Bach Festival concert for young listeners Tuesday

Music with special appeal for young people, students in elementary and secondary schools, will be featured in the Concert for Young Listeners by the Carmel Bach Festival Orchestra and Chorale on Tuesday at 3 p.m. in Sunset Theatre.

Maestro Sandor Salgo will conduct the one-hour concert and provide program comments. Featured soloists will be Louise Di Tullio, piccolo, Edward Haug, trumpet, Raymond Duste, oboe, and Jean Stevens, oboe—all members of the Festival Orchestra.

Highlights of the 35th Festival concerts will be offered for the young people. Concerto in D major for Trumpet and Oboes by Johann Frederich Fasch; Concerto for Piccolo by Antonio Vivaldi; and J.S. Bach's Brandenburg Concerto No. 1, Menuetto and Allegro movements, are included on the program, along with two movements of Vivaldi's Concerto in A minor.

The Bach Festival Chorale will join the Orchestra for a Gabrieli motet, Buccinate.

Tickets for this concert are priced at a student-available 50c and may be obtained at the Carmel Bach Festival box office, Room 11, Sunset Cultural Center. Tickets will be available one hour before the concert at the theatre box office.

No adults will be admitted unless accompanied by a student listener, and students under ten years of age must be accompanied by a parent or near-adult substitute.

Rosemary Waller, concertmistress

Rosemary Waller returns this year for her ninth season as concertmaster of the Carmel Bach Festival orchestra.

For the past four years she has been principal second violin of the Cincinnati Symphony.

A six-time winner of the Coleman Chamber Music Contest, Miss Waller holds a B.A. and M.A. from the University of Southern California and was a recipient of a Fulbright Scholarship at the Paris Conservatory of Music from 1954 to 1956.

This year, besides her duties as concertmaster, she will be featured in the Bach Triple Concerto in A minor.

Obituaries

Philip Livingston

Memorial services will be held Saturday at 10:30 a.m. at the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula for Philip Livingston, one of the early pioneers of Greenfield, and Monterey County civic leader.

Mr. Livingston died at his home in Carmel Valley last week after a brief illness. He was 79.

Born May 23, 1896 in Makanda Township, Ill., he moved with his parents to Greenfield in 1900.

He later graduated from Gonzales High School and the University of California. He served with the 342nd Field Artillery, U.S. Army, in World War I.

Mr. Livingston was a former president of the California Farm Equipment Dealers Association; and served as a member of the Salinas Rotary Club and of the citizens' student committee of Monterey Peninsula College.

He was also a charter member of the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula and had been active on the board of governors of that church.

His wife, the late Miriam Yates Livingston, died two years ago.

Mr. Livingston is survived by a daughter, Eleanor Livingston, of Monterey; a sister, Mrs. Gordon Williamson of Chico; three brothers, William of Greenfield, Albert of San Jose and Frank of Santa Cruz; and numerous nieces and nephews.

Contributions are preferred to the Rotary Foundation, the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula or to the American Cancer Society, Box 1028, Monterey.

Mission Mortuary is in charge of arrangements.

John J. Powels

Funeral services were held at the Church of the Wayfarer in Carmel on Tuesday afternoon for John Jacob Powels, 83, of Carmel Valley.

Mr. Powels died Saturday after he was stricken by an apparant heart attack while swimming in the pool of the retirement home where he lived. An employee of the home, Ada Crossman, jumped into the pool and pulled him out, but he was pronounced dead upon arrival at a local hospital.

He was born in Zeeland, Mich. on March 6, 1889. A graduate of Albion College, he received a masters degree from the University of Michigan.

Throughout his lifetime he was involved with the field of education. He was principal of Detroit Eastern High School for many years prior to moving to this area in 1957 when he retired.

He was a member of the Church of the Wayfarer.

Mr. Powels is survived by his wife, Bernice, of Carmel Valley; a daughter, Mrs. Paul J. Marsh of Westminster; a sister, Mrs. Lois Phalen of Los Angeles; three brothers, O.E. Powels of Tacoma, Vern Powels of Portland and Leon Powels of Van Nuys; and four grandchildren.

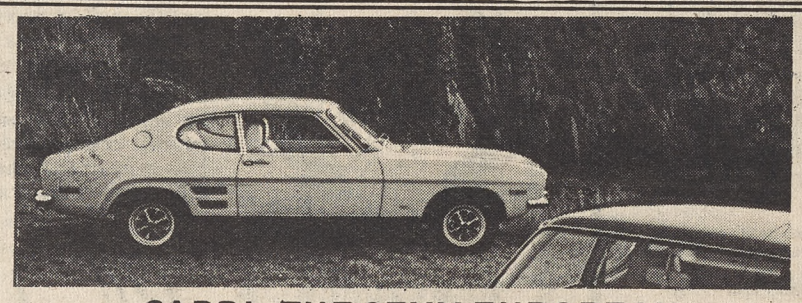

The family requests contributions to the charity of the donor's choice.

Valley All-Stars win 1-0

It only takes one run to win a game. And that's just how the Carmel Valley Little League All-Stars did it Wednesday night as theybeat the Carmel All-Stars 1 to 0 on a home run by pitcher Tom Frincke.

The Valley All-Stars will meet in the final play-offs at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Carmel Little League field, next to the Carmel Mission. As of press time, it was not known which of the other All-Star teams on the Monterey Peninsula they will play.

The Carmel All-Stars will be in the consolation game starting at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Petpourri

By JUDITH A. EISNER

WE HAD A VISIT this week from an old friend, a Siamese cat named Pharoah, who came up from Los Angeles with his mistress.

Aside from any other considerations, Pharoah is unique in that he has survived for the past four years with a disability that few cats ever get the chance to learn to cope with: Pharoah is totally paralyzed in his hind legs.

He was not born that way, but lived just a few healthy, happy months as a normal kitten. Then some unknown "sportsman" shot him in a grassy field behind his home. After a frantic search, his owner found him, half dead, and raced him to the vet for treatment.

Pharoah's robust good health pulled him through the critical hours ahead. The vet operated to remove the .22 calibre bullet, but could do little about his affected spinal cord.

There came a time when Pharoah was just as healthy as he had ever been, except for the fact that he could not walk. That was also a time for a great deal of soul-searching for his mistress, who wanted to do the right thing for the animal.

"He's not suffering," the vet assured her. "He's in no pain. There's really no reason to put him to sleep unless you can't stand to see him like that."

She couldn't stand the idea of putting an otherwise healthy animal to sleep, so Pharoah came home, to the three other cats he lived with and took up a "normal" routine. He had once been "head cat" in the household, and he rapidly regained his position. His temperament was unchanged; if anything, the care and attention lavished upon him made his normally affectionate Siamese personality blossom.

Not enough research has yet been done about animals' "thinking" to know if Pharoah realizes his condition or if he consciously "remembers" having been able to walk, climb and jump on four legs.

One thing is certain: he has adapted to his disability with ease and grace. He can pull himself up onto a couch or bed, plays with the other cats and with his toys, eats and sleeps well. In short, he's enjoying life at least as much as any happy unafflicted cat we know.

In the four years since his accident, Pharoah has been taken to several different vets for consultations, in the hopes that one would be able to come up with a "miracle cure." So far, nothing new is available in the treatment of paralytic injuries.

THERE ARE PEOPLE who, upon seeing this exceptionally large and handsome cat hitch himself along (at an amazing rate of speed) on two over-developed front legs, find the sight repulsive. They argue with Pharoah's owner that it's terrible to keep an animal in such misery and that it's cruelty not to have him put to sleep. She has become used to these reactions and resolves them by simply keeping Pharoah out of their sight.

She trusts the veterinary opinions she's received and we trust our own eyes. Pharoah is a healthy, active, alert, friendly, happy cat. Not the slightest hint of pain or fear darkens his bright blue eyes.

People who react to Pharoah's condition with revulsion usually react to similar conditions in human beings with the same feelings. The only difference is that they are forced to accept the human ill; one cannot put a disabled human "to sleep."

The story of Pharoah brings to mind instances where animals have been severely injured but could have recovered had their owners permitted it. Amputation of a limb that's been damaged beyond repair seems a terrible, drastic "salvation" to many people. Yet veterinarians agree that dogs and cats do very well on three legs once they have recovered from the accident, shock and surgery.

If you've ever had a dog or cat that's hurt a paw and hobbles about on three legs, you'll understand. At a walk, about the house, a three-legged animal can look clumsy and uncomfortable. But let him see something he wants to chase and he's off in a flash, often going as quickly on three legs as on four.

Similar cases arise when a pet has been injured in an eye and where removal of the eye is the only treatment. Horrified owners can't accept the idea of living with a one-eyed animal and have an otherwise healthy and useful pet put down.

AMONG other differences, dogs and cats were spared the sense of shame or self-consciousness that humans suffer from. They're too busy with really important things to worry about how they look. (The only exception to this is that animals frequently have a sense of the ridiculous; they feel something akin to embarrassment when shaved or dressed in clothing or otherwise made to lose their dignity.)

We have known dogs in the past who appeared perfectly normal at first inspection until a closer look revealed the dog had only three legs. These dogs we've seen appeared happy and well-adjusted and probably were just that; for their owners, in sparing their lives when tragedy threatened it, probably cared more for them than people who can only live with outwardly whole pets.

Seeing Pharoah again reminded us of what the vet who originally treated him said. "Only that cat's spirit kept him alive. He deserves to be given a chance."

New York Opera star Carol Neblett adds luster to 35th Bach Festival

Carol Neblett made her New York City Opera debut as Musetta in La Boheme in March, 1969, after having been a soloist with the Roger Wagner Chorale.

She has sung with the San Diego Symphony and in a concert performance of Gluck's Orpheus and Eurydice with the English Mezzo-Soprano, Janet Baker. She was chosen to open the fall 1969 season at the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center, performing the dual roles of Margherita and Elena in a new production of Boito's Mefistofele.

Still in her 20's, Miss Neblett appeared in March 1971 in the title role of Charpentier's Louise in the New York City Opera revival, and in the leading roles during the opera's annual visit to Los Angeles. In a lighter vein, she appeared at the Hollywood Bowl under the baton of John Green, and with Andre Kostelanetz in New York and Cleveland.

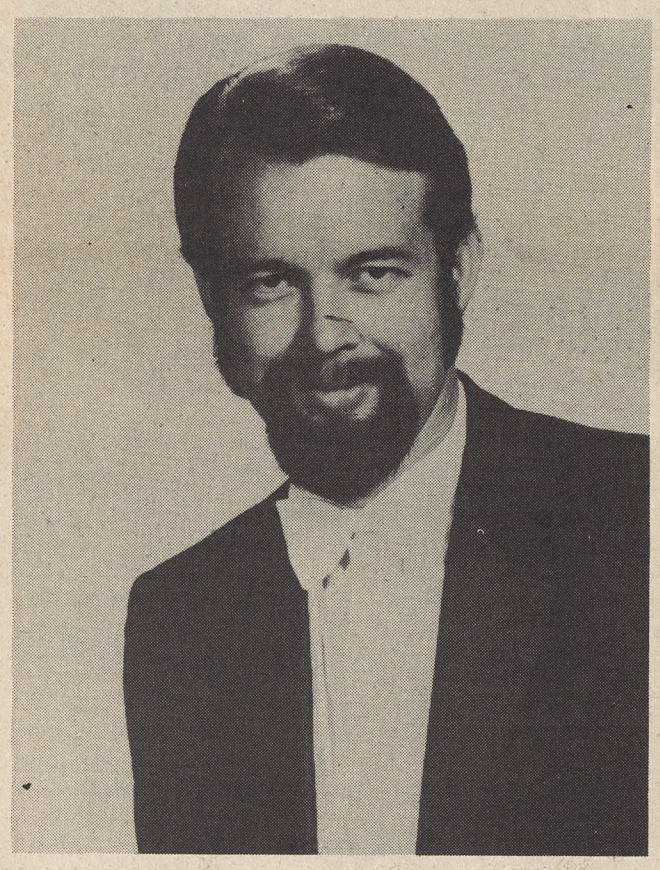

She studied with William Vennard and Gwendolyn Koldofsky of the University of Southern California and works with vocal coaches Esther Andreas and Jack Met. Last season she visited the Soviet Union under the Cultural Exchange program arranged by impressario S. Hurok.

This is the young soprano's first appearance with the Carmel Bach Festival. She will be featured in the J.S. Bach Magnificat in D major on opening night, July 21, and again July 28, and in the Bach B Minor Mass July 23 and 30.

She will sing two Mozart concert arias for soprano and orchestra, "Bella mia fiamma", K. 528, and "Ch'io mi scordi di te," K. 505, with pianist Patricia Michaelian, Saturday, July 22 and again July 29; and will appear in the morning recital Tuesday, July 25, with Douglas Lawrence, bass; Douglas Davis, cello; and Darlene Lawrence, piano.

CAROL NEBLETT

DOUGLAS LAWRENCE

Douglas Lawrence to solo in 'Magnificat'

Here for his sixth season in the Carmel Bach Festival, bass-baritone Douglas Lawrence combines his singing career with teaching positions at El Camino and Charman Colleges.

Since making his operatic debut as Papageno in Mozart's The Magic Flute in Carmel in 1970, he has added new roles and was awarded a grant from the National Opera Institute for further study.

This spring he performed in concert versions of Verdi's La Traviata as Germont, and as Giovanni in Mozart's Don Giovanni. This summer he will perform in the Hollywood Bowl as the King in Aida and Monterone in Rigoletto with James Levine conducting. He will appear twice in the Bowl in Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, once with Hans Schmidt-Isserstadt and once with Lukas Foss.

In September he will sing the role of Christ in Bach's St. Matthew Passion at the Idyllwild Arts-Foundation Festival.

Now under the management of S. Hurok Concerts Inc., Lawrence studied under the late William Vennard.

This year he will be bass soloist in the Magnificat on both Fridays, July 21 and 28; the Mass in B Minor on both Sundays, July 23 and 30; the Cantatas, Gottes Zeit July 24, Du Hirte Israel July 25, and Wachet Auf July 27.

He will also sing in the July 25 morning recital with soprano Carol Neblett; cellist Douglas Davis; and pianist Darlene Lawrence, his wife.

Festival a sellout; recital tix available

The Carmel Bach Festival office announces that although the Festival's evening and Sunday afternoon concerts are sold out, as well as the two Saturday morning recitals, seats are still available for the six recitals during the week—Monday, July 24 through Friday, July 28.

Recitals, at 11 a.m., will be held in the parish hall of All Saints' Episcopal Church, Lincoln at Ninth, Carmel. The Monday recital of J.S. Bach organ music, performed by Kenneth Ahrens, will be at 3 p.m. at Bethlehem Lutheran Church, 800 Cass St., Monterey.

A brief synopsis of the morning programs follows.

Monday, July 24, 11 a.m.: Keyboard works of J.S. Bach, Haydn and Mozart, with Julian White, piano and Douglas Davis, cello.

Tuesday, July 25, 11 a.m.: Arias and duets by Gluck, Lully, Handel, Haydn and Purcell, and a Valentini sonata for cello, with Carol Neblett, soprano; Douglas Lawrence, bass-baritone; Douglas Davis, cello, and Darlene Lawrence, piano.

Wednesday, July 26, 11 a.m.: Sonatas for violin and harpsichord by J.S. Bach, and the Sonata in C minor for solo violin, with Christine Edinger, violin, and Malcolm Hamilton, harpsichord.

Thursday, July 27, 11 a.m.: Renaissance and Baroque music by Isaac, Couperin, Lawes, Handel, with Roberta and Colin Sterne, playing Renaissance and Baroque instruments, and with Glenna DeWeese, alto.

Friday, July 28, 11 a.m.: Baroque chamber music ensembles playing works by Handel, Castello and Haydn, and a cantata by Nikolaus Bruhns, with Martha Todd Blaine, flute; Donald Leake, oboe; Sally Kell, baryton; Jean Stevens, oboe; Susan Willoughby, bassoon; Robert Bernard, bass; Ronald Hudson, violin; Thomas Hall, viola; Shirley Douty, cello and Ralph Linsley, harpsichord continuo.

Scheduled events which will be open to the public are the Saturday afternoon lectures, July 22 and 29, by Dr. Raymond Kendall, executive director of the Young Musicians Foundation in Los Angeles, on "Bach's Mass in D Minor After 200 Years—a Performance Legacy," at 3 p.m. in All Saints' parish hall; and a symposium of "Heinrich Schuetz and the Venetian Masters" at 3 p.m. Thursday, also in All Saints' parish hall, with Dr. Kendall, Dr. Samson B. Knoll, dean of faculty at the Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies, and Edward Colby, Stanford University music librarian.

Young listeners, aged 10 to 20, will find a diversified program of selections from major Festival concerts at the youth concert scheduled for 3 p.m. Tuesday, July 25 in Sunset Theatre. Louise Di Tullio, piccolo; Edward Haug, trumpet; Raymond Duste and Jean Stevens, oboe; the Festival chorale and Festival orchestra will present works by Fasch, J.S. Bach, Vivaldi, Gabrieli and Haydn. Sandor Salgo, the Festival's music director and conductor, will introduce each selection with a brief commentary. Tickets, at 50 c each, are available in the Bach Festival office, Room 11, Sunset Center.

Recital tickets, priced at $3, are available in the Festival office and at the door.

A READER CALLED LAST WEEK to inquire about the origin of the name, "LA BAGATELLE." Mrs. Vernon, owner of same, and formerly of San Francisco's Old Russian Tea Room, gave us the details. "La Bagatelle" in French means a trifle, something small and unpretentious. The expression came into great prominence during the reign of Louis XVI when his brother, the Duke d'Artois, bet Marie Antoinette 100,000 francs that he could have a small castle built in three months. He did it, to the wonder of all, and at a cost of three million francs. Actually he diverted materials bound for other projects for use in constructing his "small" place. When others commented on it, he said it was just "la bagatelle," a trifle...three million francs' worth of trifle. Since that time, the expression has taken hold and Carmel Valley's LA BAGATELLE on Pilot Road is every bit a worthy successor to the name. Quiet, elegant dining in its charming garden atmosphere is definitely a treat and never a small one at that.

PERSONABLE OWNER OF THE HATCH COVER, Mike Tancredi, is an outstanding young man in his late twenties who has distinguished himself in several fields...all the way from school days to his business endeavors. He has been a Bank of America outstanding student of the year; competitive swimmer, president of his fraternity, and holds a degree in psychology from the University of Arizona. He has done graduate work in this same field at San Jose State College.

Mike has been in the steak house business from college days and he opened the Hatch Cover in March, 1969. Since that time, the Hatch Cover has climbed steadily to the position of one of the Peninsula's finest dinner houses. Mike's wife is charming Sharon Jane and the couple are awaiting the birth of their first child any day now.

EVERY FRIDAY NIGHT is the great King Crab and Prime Rib Buffet night at RANCHO CANADA. And the fellow who "gets it all together" is head chef, Willy; a personable and talented master of the culinary arts. Willy excelled in the beginning (he was in the top ten of his class when he received his cook's training) and it's been going that way ever since. His first professional assignment was with the Matson Lines and, after that, the President Lines...Wilson and Cleveland. Between sailings he filled in at many of the Peninsula's top eating places. Willy settled permanently in the area in the fall of 1970 and has been at RANCHO CANADA ever since. Willy's travels took him to five continents and he touched most of the world's great ports, all the way from Rio to Stockholm and from Naples to Hong Kong. His favorite is Sydney...with Hong Kong a close second.

GREAT NEW THINGS HAPPEN all the time at CARMEL VALLEY INN under the enterprising new management of Jim McPherson and Ty Cabeen. They've added a new entree to their popular family style dinners...char-broiled Brochettes of Beef on Skewer, served with onions, fresh mushrooms, tomatoes and green pepper on a bed of rice. And most reasonably priced. Carmel Valley Inn's kitchen is closed Wednesdays now instead of Mondays. Too many lucky weekenders stretching a long lazy one into an even longer and lazier one.

CLOSE HARMONY, BARBER SHOP STYLE was enjoyed at LOS LAURELES LODGE last Saturday night when a group from the Monterey chapter of S.P.B.S.Q.A. made it a night at this popular Valley spot, joining in with Joe Garland in more than a song or two. Daytimes it's "fun in the sun" by the pool, with many worshippers of "Old Sol" coming for breakfast and staying all day. Maybe it's the complimentary hors d'oeuvres break at noon that tides them over for the afternoon.

THE MANY FRIENDS OF DEAN DIAZ SR. will be happy to know he's on the mend after the recent auto accident. Meantime Dean Jr., Dan Tabares and Tom Sanchez are carrying on in the Diaz family tradition...always the greatest Mexican food on the Peninsula.

Theater review:

An amusing 'Beggar's Opera'

JOHN GAY'S smash hit of 1728, The Beggar's Opera, had a hot and humorous opening at the Carmel Valley White Oaks Theatre last Thursday night. The Theatre Division of the Hidden Valley Music Seminars' production of the classic comedy played to a nearly full house of program-fanned patrons who seemed suitably amused by the antics of the beggars, pick-pockets and so-called "Ladies of the Night."

The plot is a flimsy chain of events in which Macheath, a gentleman crook, allegedly marries the daughter of Peachum, a combination fence and informer. Upset less by her choice than by the fact that she would be so foolish as to get married ("How could we have stayed together so long if we had married") her parents decide to capitalize on the event by turning Macheath in, collecting the reward and Polly's inheritance upon her husband's hanging.

Macheath is warned by Polly but captured in a barroom full of "ladies" two of whom have betrayed him. Alas, the fool to trust a woman. Polly meets Lucy Lockit, daughter of the jailer, who has also had a run-in with Macheath and is "with child." Lucy aids Macheath's escape but he is soon recaptured by the girls' fathers. The bandit is miraculously saved in the end and, of course, love conquers all.

This production moved along at a quick pace pausing only rarely for the gags that so often accompany The Beggar's Opera. The songs were all tuneful and pleasant and notably performed in the case of Gertrude Snyder playing Mrs. Peachum. In a costume which made her look like a baby two-tone whale she reeled about waving her little arms like the greatest diva in all Italy. She was complemented by the loud and boisterous Robert Pace as Peachum. Chriss Bramlet was sweet-voiced and beautiful in the Tricia Nixonesque role of Polly.

John Rousseau's Macheath was especially entertaining when he had his hands full of jealous women. Of these I was particularly impressed by Edie Donahoe as Suky Tawdry and Pat Steward as Jenny Diver.

Steve Keener was exceptional as the gravelly-voiced drunken jailer Lockit but the show was stolen by Elayne Botkin as Diana Trapes when she tottered on the scene in a gin-soaked stupor announcing to Peachum and Lockit, "If you have any blacks I am your chap for my Ladies are very fond of mourning" and soon breaking into beautifully sour but blissful singing about all the men and gin she has had.

On stage throughout the play the other Londoners include the blown-up and sadly-violated Lucy Lockit of Wynn White, Kevin Skiles' Filch and a Beggar by Ramie Wikdahl. Also in the cast are Cameron Henley, Larry Venza, Deborah Berry, Barbara Botkin, Debbie Swanson, Steve McClearn, Carl Cecha, Ange Schultz, Dolores Kailer, and Adrienne Maravich.

The flower vendors, appropriately costumed and serving as ushers were delightful in their chatting and singing.

The Beggar's Opera, directed by Michael Demaree, will be playing July 20, 21, 22, 23, 27, 28 and 29 at 7:30 on Sundays and Thursdays, and 8 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays. T.H.

Soap Box Derby at Laguna Seca July 30

On July 30 you won't hear the roar of high powered racing engines or the squeal of tires as race cars bend through Laguna Seca's nine twisty turns. You will see, however, 40 Monterey County boys and girls competing, including some from Carmel Valley, in an event that captures all the excitement of Grand Prix racing, the 1972 All-American Soap Box Derby.

This second annual event, sponsored locally by the Carmel Valley Lions, is one of approximately 250 gravity grand prix held throughout the United States this summer.

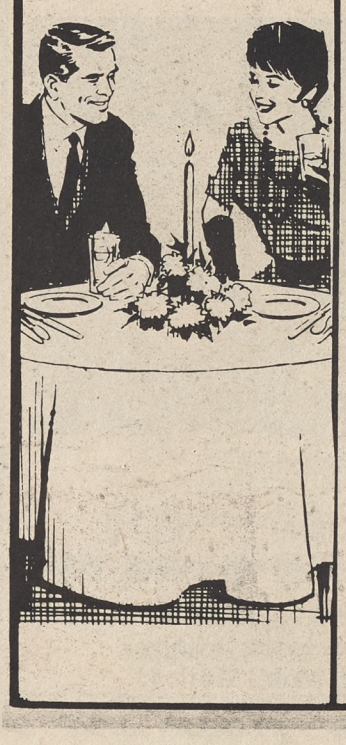

The Monterey County winner will receive a $500 savings bond, the Chevrolet Trophy, and a trip back to Akron, Ohio, for the thrill of his or her life, the chance to compete in the grand-daddy of all soap box derbies, the All-American Gravity Grand Prix on August 26. There our champ will be racing for $30,000 in college scholarships.

To see all the action first-hand, be sure to be at Laguna Seca Raceway on July 30 when the starter's flag signals the first race at 12 noon.

Summer mood in new group exhibition at Art Association

A summer mood and aesthetic concern for space emanates from the new exhibition of paintings and sculpture by 25 Carmel Art Association artist members now on public view in the association's main gallery room, Dolores near Sixth.

Prominently installed is a large canvas by Keith Lindberg. Rendered in the artist's typical yellow-green, cadmium red and cerulean blue palette, Lindberg's painting presents figures in a summer landscape and suggests depth by the conventional Renaissance perspective where forms diminish in size from foreground back to a centralized vanishing point on the horizon line. To achieve this effect Lindberg painted a sequence of cubic tables crowded one in front of the other thereby forcing the viewer to enter his picture by visually stepping from cube to cube until the figure, at the end of the path, is met.

Mary Beach's "First Sitting" relates to the Lindberg canvas in color yet manages to dispense with formalized space and creates instead an airy atmosphere whereby space is clearly defined and breathes about the individual objects occupying her picture plane.

The aesthetic preoccupation with space continues in the exhibition with the introduction of movement in Pat Cunningham's "Fast Work Wyoming." The cowboy subject, chasing a longhorn, allows Miss Cunningham to establish motion through space in the manner of the early Futurist painters who rendered visual motion by blurring edges in a staccato sequence of planes.

S.C. Yuan probes the space beyond the format in a canvas which utilizes the abstract -expressionist device of spattering and pushing color away from the center to the edge of the picture surface. With his canvas titled "Snow" Yuan makes his pictorial space spill over the edge out into the environment surrounding his painting. A little more constrained yet similar in intent is Howard Bradford's "Black and Sienna."

While not as concerned with space as the above, an additional group of paintings included in the exhibition relate to each other and the mood of the show by their warm summer tones. Reed Farrington's "Reclining Figure" in intensely hot values exists as a fitting companion to Jeanne Bellmer's ochre and sienna "Landscape No. 1." Shirley Holt's "The World Above" records the arid tints of dry summer grass beneath the branches of a coastal oak while Reginald Machado's "Little Oaks" and Nancy Johnson's "Rancho Don Juan" establish the heat of summer in the Carmel Valley.

Strikingly individual notes in the exhibition are sounded by the works of Vern Yadon, Molla Moss and Eve Tartar-Brown. Yadon, a new artist member of the association, firmly establishes his position as a watercolorist in complete command of his medium by "Two Jays," a low-key, sensitively painted paper of two jays pecking about some dwarf oriental iris. Also low-keyed, but intensely luminous are two of Miss Moss' intimately-sized paintings which achieve their beguiling effect by progressive overlays of color planes which manage also to retain the tactile quality of the painting medium itself.

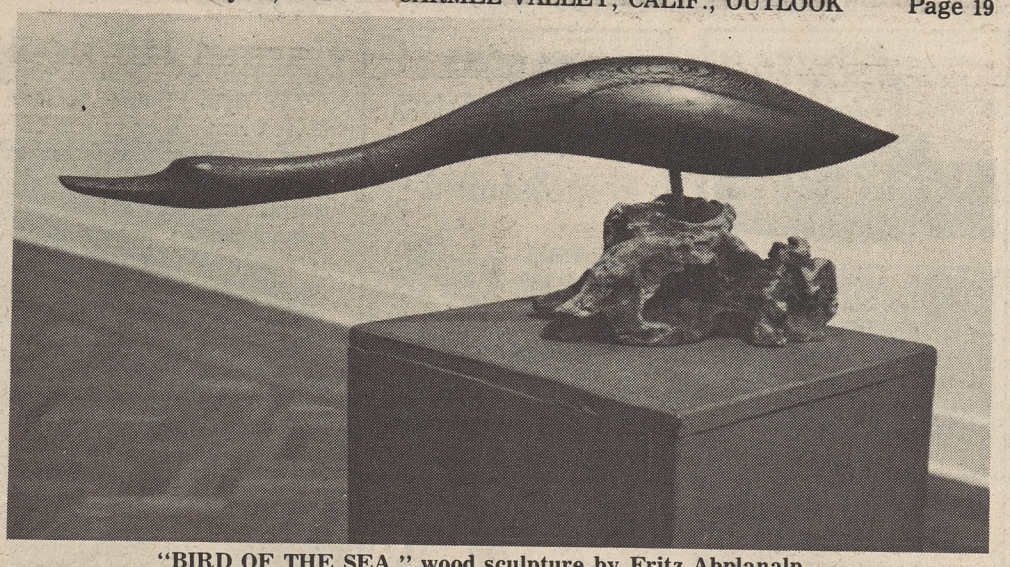

Eve Tartar-Brown's constructions, based upon a philosophical concern with the positive and negative, challenge the viewer by the variety of ways in which the artist explores her theme. In some the positive element is presented in ascendency; others push the negative elements to the foreground and relegate the dominant positive to the background; others explore the positive and negative elements of sound in iconographic form.

Among the sculptures included in the exhibition Fritz Abplanalp's "Bird of the Sea" reiterates the concern with space.

The exhibition will continue through August 2 and is open to the public during regular gallery hours, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, including Sundays.

"FIRST SITTING," collage by Mary Beach currently on view in the exhibition of New Paintings and Sculpture at the Carmel Art Association gallery, Dolores near Sixth.

"BIRD OF THE SEA," wood sculpture by Fritz Abplanalp currently on display in the New Paintings and Sculpture exhibition at the Carmel Art Association through August 2.

One hundred and twenty photographs have been picked from the complete set of 832 prints personally chosen by Weston in 1953 as representative of his life's work and printed under his direction by his son, Brett Weston. The complete set was made available to the Friends of Photography by a private collector.

The main intent of this second exhibit is to reveal the many sides of Edward Weston which have not generally been seen or appreciated by the public. Included in the show are a generous sampling of Weston's humorous and satirical prints, clouds, dunes, figure studies and photography from his last years at Point Lobos. Most of the works have not been previously published and many have not been previously viewed. The exhibit continues until August 27.

The public is cordially invited to the preview showing on July 21, from 8 to 10:30 p.m.

The Friends of Photography Gallery, one of the nation's most distinguished fine art photography galleries, is a non-profit organization with nearly 1,000 participating members from around the world. Among its trustees are such noted photographers as Wynn Bullock, Minor White, Brett Weston and Ansel Adams. The gallery is located at Sunset Center on San Carlos at Ninth. Gallery hours are from 1-5 p.m. daily, closed Mondays. For further information, call 624-6330.

Carmel HS pool to open Monday

The Carmel Unified School District Recreation Department has announced that the Carmel High School Swimming Pool will open for regular swim lessons and afternoon recreation swim on Monday.

The pool went out of use when the boilers broke down several months ago. One of the two new boilers that the district ordered has arrived and has been installed with the other one still on the way. The pool will be heated with the one boiler temporarily.

Parents wishing to register their children in the second swim session may do so by signing up at the Recreation Office on San Carlos and Tenth in Carmel. They may also register at the pool Monday.

Evening family swims will also begin Monday and will continue each Monday and Wednesday night, 7 to 8:30 p.m., for the remainder of the summer.

Adult swimming lessons will begin Tuesday, July 25 at 7 p.m. Adults wishing to enroll in the program can contact the recreation office or the pool Tuesday. The recreation office can be reached by calling 624-3342.

Noted photographer Lee Friedlander to lecture Saturday

Lee Friedlander, photographer and Guggenheim Fellow, will give a lecture and slide presentation on his own work in Room 4, Sunset Cultural Center, Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

Friedlander has exhibited at the Museum of Modern Art and the George Eastman House in New York, as well as numerous museums and galleries throughout the country. In both 1960 and 1962, he received Guggenheim Fellowships for photographic studies of the changing American social scene.

He has taught at the University of Minnesota, the Art Institute of Chicago and the University of California at Los Angeles. His photographs have been published extensively and are included in the recent Documentary Photography edition of the Time-Life Series of Photography.

The lecture will be one aspect of the weekend field workshop sponsored by the Friends of Photography. Admission to the lecture is $1.50 per person. For further information on either the lecture or the workshop, call 624-6330.

Sunset views:

Bach Festival opens tomorrow

By FRANK RILEY, CULTURAL DIRECTOR

TOMORROW the "Open To The Public" phase of the 35th annual Carmel Bach Festival begins at the Sunset Center Theatre with the traditional sounding of the trumpets and the premier concert of the season at 8:30 p.m. We understand that all of the concerts are now sold out, attesting to the nation-wide recognition of the Festival. In conjunction with the Festival a "Bachania" exhibit, supplied by special arrangements with the West German Consul General, is on display in the Marjorie Evans Gallery; and a special exhibit is being installed in the theatre foyer to remain during the Festival. Even if you have been unable to get tickets to the concerts, make a point of stopping in to see the exhibits.

SOME WEEKS AGO we announced a class for beginners in Bonsai culture to be conducted by Col. Kenneth Burns. Before the ink was dry, the class was over-subscribed, with enough more prospective pupils to fill a second class. Well, the first class ends this week, and we are wroking with Col. Burns to schedule the second one. It will probably begin about mid-September. Get your name in now to secure one of the few open places.

DON'T FORGET that the Forest Theater Sunday afternoon programs are now in full swing. Each week a different performance is offered at the open-air theater by the city and its cultural commission. Admission is free and residents and visitors are invited. Take the short walk up Mountain View from Ocean Avenue this week to enjoy the "Magic Carpet Theatre" presented by Jim Mairs' Hidden Valley Children's Theatre group. They have already established a name for themselves with programs at Sunset, in the Carmel schools, and on television. Come and enjoy them at their first appearance at the Forest Theater.

THE FOREST THEATER Guild's production of Shakespeare's Twelfth Night continues each Thursday, Friday and Saturday in July with curtain time at 8:30 p.m. See it this week or next—after that will be too late.

BECAUSE OF THE MANY night hours our staff must work during the Bach Festival, the Sunset Center office will not open until 1 p.m. during the week of July 24 through July 29. Please plan your phone call or visit accordingly.

'Magic Carpet' to drop in at Forest Theater Sunday

The "Magic Carpet," Hidden Valley's Children's Theatre will perform The Best of The Magic Carpet Sunday at the Forest Theater, as a part of the city-sponsored free Sunday afternoon series. The 90-minute show will begin promptly at 2 p.m. and will feature highlights of this year's performances at Sunset Center, in the Carmel schools and on KMST television.

The "Magic Carpet" is a group of ten actors and actresses interested in bringing entertaining and absorbing theatre to Peninsula children. It is directed by Jim Mairs who explains: "Improvisation, pantomime, and familiar stories are the tools of the actor in Children's Theatre. He must make a reality, that children will accept, without the aid of costumes, props or scenery.

"The beauty of this 'story' type of theatre lies in the imagination that must be used by both performer and audience. The actor must create an environment or character with limited tools and the audience must accept those limitations and allow imagination to fill in the gaps.

"Children's theatre must educate as well as entertain its audience. For too many years, this education has been regarded as simple, moralistic principles which were passed down to kids in 'cute,' romantic and over-simplified 'fairy tales.'

"The 'Magic Carpet' attempts to educate its passengers by means of the enjoyment of live entertainment, the joy of the audience participating with the actors on stage, and the fun of 'imagining.' The 'Magic Carpet' does not try and compete with T.V. and film; it's purely theatrical and is done because it's fun."

The cast is well known to local kids who have demanded autographs after each show in their schools. The "Magic Carpet" cast includes June Ballinger, Debbie Berry, John Bristol, Anna Fox, Steve Fry, Carlo Grossman, Steve Keener, John Rousseau, Steve Tosh, Wynn White, and is directed by Jim Mairs.

Children of all ages are welcome Sunday.

CAST MEMBERS of Hidden Valley's 'Magic Carpet' Children's Theatre are draped on a city truck on the way to rehearsal for Sunday's free performance at the Forest Theater. Children of all ages are welcome to the program which starts at 2 p.m.

W.C. Fields headlines comedy film program at MPC

W.C. Fields in his rare, seldom released classic You're Telling Me, Charlie Chaplin, Laurel and Hardy, Buster Keaton, The Little Rascals and others will headline an evening of outstanding film comedy tomorrow (Friday) at Monterey Peninsula College.

The program is the third of five in "The Great American Comedy Film Festival" being presented by the MPC Film Appreciation Club this summer and will be screened once at 8 p.m. in Lecture Forum 103.

Fields stars in You're Telling Me, a seldom-released 1934 classic, as an inventor who works on such strange devices as a keyhole finder for inebriated homecomers.

Also on the bill is Charlie Chaplin in The Fireman, The Little Rascals in Wild Man From Borneo, Buster Keaton in The Garage and Laurel and Hardy in Brats.

A forgotten comedian, Charlie Chase, in one of his best films, Movie Night, will also be screened.

The series, which is presenting the best of great comedians from "The Golden Age of Comedy," has drawn large crowds for past programs and early attendance is suggested for good seats.

A $1 admission will be asked at the door.

Hearing set July 27 on Cal-Am discharge into Carmel River

Regional water quality control board orders inquiry

A special panel of the California Regional Water Quality Control Board, Central Coast Region, will hold a public hearing next Thursday to obtain evidence on whether or not the California-American Water Company is violating the board's discharge requirements for the Carmel River.

The hearing is set for 2 p.m. in the library of Carmel Middle School.

Testimony will be accepted regarding the practice of Cal-Am in discharging filtered backwash water from its iron-removal plant on Schulte Road into the river. Written copies of testimony to be presented should be furnished to the Board in advance. The address is 2238 Broad St., San Luis Obispo, Calif. 93401.

The company has been emptying this water into the river on a periodic basis for over a year. It recently applied for formal certification from the CCRWQCB that this does not violate the board's water quality control standards, and asked permission to discharge up to 50,000 gallons of discharge water per day.

Because of complaints by residents in the Schulte Road area that their water has been adversely affected by this discharge, the regional water quality control board agreed to call a special hearing.

If it finds that the water company is violating waste discharge requirements, it may recommend that the full board order a cease and desist order.

The next board meeting will be held August 11 in San Luis Obispo.

According to the regional water quality control board, the specific requirements relating to discharge into the Carmel River are as follows:

1. The discharge shall not cause the concentration of iron in the Carmel River to exceed 4.0 mg.-l at any time.

2. The discharge shall not cause the pH, dissolved oxygen, or ferric oxide content of the Carmel River to exceed the following limits:

pH	- within range 6.5 - 8.5
Dissolved Oxygen	- not less than 7.0 mg-l
Ferric oxide	- 0.1 mg-l

3. The discharge shall not increase the turbidity of the Carmel River more than 5 Jackson Candle Turbidity Units or ten percent, whichever is greater.

4. The discharge shall not change the appearance or color of receiving waters as a result of floating, suspended, or settleable solids, or chemical reaction.

5. The discharge shall not cause concentrations of toxic substances in the receiving waters that are deleterious to animals, fish and other aquatic life.

6. The discharge shall not cause the formation of bottom deposits in the river bed.

7. The discharge shall not cause ground waters in the vicinity of the discharge to exceed the present U.S. Department of Agriculture qualitative classification corresponding to said ground water, and in no case shall iron and manganese concentrations increase more than 10 percent from quality naturally occurring when measured from a statistically meaningful base line for a selected monitoring well.

Faults:

1. When two faults are made at one obstacle only the major fault will be counted, except refusals, which count in addition.

2. When an obstacle is composed of several elements in the same vertical plane, a fault at the top element is the only one penalized.

3. In and outs -- the faults at each obstacle are considered separately. In case of refusal or runout at one element entry may rejump the previous as well as the following elements.

4. Judges are to penalize unsafe jumping and bad form -- whether the fence is touched or not.

5. Teams, pairs should be judged as a single unit, except where two or more horses have knockdowns or refusals in which instances they shall be scored cumulatively.

Touches:

1. Any part behind the stifle - ½ fault
2. Any part in front of the stifle - 1 fault
3. Of standard or wing in jumping with any part of the horse, rider or equipment -- 1 fault

Knockdowns:

(When an obstacle height is lowered.

1. Any part behind the stifle - 4 faults
2. Any part in front of the stifle - 8 faults
3. Of standard or wing - 8 faults
4. Foot in water or ditch - 8 faults

Disobediences:

1. First refusal, runout, etc. -- 8 faults
2. Second refusal, runout, etc. -- 8 faults
3. Third refusal, runout, etc. -- Elimination
4. Jumping obstacle before reset -- Elimination
5. Bolting from ring -- Elimination
6. Failure to keep proper course -- Elimination
7. Jumping out of order -- Elimination

Falls:

A horse has fallen when both shoulder and hip on the same side touch the ground, or the obstacle and the ground -- Elimination

Germany builds great luxury cars. BMW is the one that shows how much you know about them.

One thing you always get as standard equipment with any German luxury car is a great feeling of prestige.

However, if you're more interested in a different kind of prestige, the kind that comes with knowing you own the best engineered luxury car for the money, you should be considering the new BMW Bavaria.

The Bavaria is fast. It will cruise all day at 120 mph with no strain. Thanks to an amazingly efficient smooth and turbine-like ohc engine — the most advanced of its kind in the world.

The Bavaria is sure. Its rear wheels never change camber no matter how rough the road. Thanks to the most sophisticated suspension system ever conceived.

BMW's new Bavaria is also exceedingly comfortable with interior appointments and fittings that are tasteful rather than decadently plush. The whole emphasis is on go instead of show.

If you're shopping for the world's most prestigious car — a true Germany luxury car, better see every model. Then, if you can recognize a great buy in luxury engineering, you'll find there's really only one choice.

BILL IJAMS, SR., (right), says good-by to Willard Fay before leaving for Ethiopia to serve in the Peace Corps. Bill gave Will his first motorcycle ride on a new 1934 Harley-Davidson when Will was only six.

Bill Ijams, sr., joining Peace Corps in Ethiopia

Bill Ijams, sr., left Carmel Valley on Sunday en route to Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, where he will serve as a volunteer in the Peace Corps. A long-time local resident, Bill was back in the Valley to visit with and say good-by to his family and to many of his old friends and neighbors.

Bill's beloved Peggy is in the General Hospital in Salinas. He said his final good-by to her on Sunday, shortly before his youngest son Jim, a resident of Calle de la Ventana in Robles, took him to the Monterey Airport. Another son, Williams Ijams, jr., also lives in the Village, on Lilac Rd.

During his stay as a houseguest with Harold A. Jones on Via Milpitas, he especially enjoyed visiting Willard Fay of Will's Fargo, Rosie at his Cracker Barrell, Harry Gillett of Rancho Del Monte and his new managers Richard and Betty, John and Aileen Bulmer of Los Laureles Lodge, and Joe the Bartender and his wife Donna.

In Ethiopia Bill's work as a Peace Corps volunteer will involve working in five major cities on a teacher training staff preparing Ethiopian high school graduates to teach English.

Bill was born and raised on his family's farm in the San Fernando Valley. His grandfather was one of the first white settlers there and first passed through Los Angeles in 1864, when only one store existed there. After starring as an All-Valley Conference center in football for Van Nuys High School, he chose to enter what was then College of the Pacific in Stockton, partially because he was intrigued by the flying courses available there. In the 1931-1933 seasons he played fullback and tackle at COP for the legendary football coach Amos Alonzo Stagg.

In 1940, Bill joined the Department of Agriculture in San Joaquin County as an agricultural inspector. During the war years he served in the Navy with George Mosolf, the Carmel High School coach. Then in 1947 he moved to Carmel Valley as a district sales manager for the Best Fertilizers Company of Oakland. He moved to Gonzales where he was elected to the City Council, sold overhead sprinkler systems, and taught at Soledad prison for Gonzales High School.

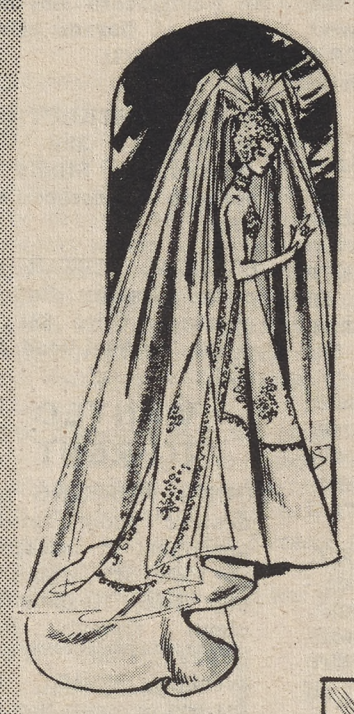

Teaching attracted him more and more, so in 1953 he taught at the King City Union Elementary School, then in 1954 at Robert Downs School in Pacific Grove. From 1954 to 1966 Bill taught elementary school in Moss Landing, commuting there from Pebble Beach, where he and his family lived from 1957 to 1962, and from Carmel Valley, where they lived from 1962 to 1971. In March of 1971 Bill sold his Carmel Valley house to Richard and Charity Crane.
